Cats Deserting their Offspring to Care for Young Chickens.

A correspondent writes to the N.Y. Sun as follows: I have read a paragraph that is going the rounds of the newspapers in regard to a case of emotional insanity in a Massachusetts cat. This cat, it is affirmed, abandoned her young offspring, last year, and adopted in their place a chicken. This year the unnatural mother did the same thing, having kittens which she deserted in order to lavish her maternal affections upon a chicken that had been brought into the house for warmth.

I saw, several years ago, in Defiance, Ohio, an instance quite as remarkable. Three early goslings were taken from the mother goose and placed in a basket by the kitchen stove. On a Sunday the family of the farmer went to church, giving particular instructions to the hired girl not to let the old cat, who was nursing a litter of kittens in the barn, get at the goslings. The girl was careless, and the cat did get at them; but instead of viewing them in the light of proper food, she curled up in the basket with them, and refused to go back to her hungry kittens. Her efforts to induce the goslings to look on her in the light of a mother were amusing, and her failures in this direction didn't seem to discourage her. She clung to the goslings until they were taken from her and given to the mother goose.

OUT OF DOORS.

The constant sunshine of last week has warmed the earth and brought countless wild flowers into life and bloom. The wild land along the river banks is in places bright with the blossoms of the mountain pinks. The delicate pink and white tints of the petals of these flowers are beautiful. Indian pinks, bright scarlet flowers of a different and coarser family, have also appeared in profusion. As for "salt and pepper," a wild flower much resembling bellflower, the ground is overrun with its blossoms. One could pick an armful of bright colored wild blossoms in half an hour now.

The little striped lizards have come out of their winter quarters and may be seen scampering every where among the rocks and sage brush. They have a well-fed, happy and contented look, as though the winter had not been hard upon them. The chipmunks, too, have appeared again. Little black water beetles have resumed their endless merry-go-round on the surface of the shallows by the river's brink. The frogs have gone forth, and yesterday were sunning themselves by the margin of the streams. The robin's song, the call of the lark, and the blackbird's saucy chirp are familiar sounds again. Two butterflies were observed in a short walk yesterday. As for the ants, the ground is alive with them. Every where their circular earth works are encountered, the busy creatures toiling in their never-ending task of excavating, with tireless energy.

And yet with all this world of life and beauty at their doors, men will mope within their houses, and damn the "desert."

A DEMAND FOR REFORM.

Nevada is ripe for a real reform in politics. She has been shamefully corrupt in all matters of that sort heretofore, and the matter has reached high tide. A change from the old custom of buying and selling has become necessary, and we hope to see the pendulum swing to the other extreme and this State become a model of purity and political honesty. For several reasons a "money campaign" should not be thought of this year. In county matters, the income of officers will be greatly reduced by the salary bill, so they cannot afford the lavish expenditures made by predecessors. Then money on all sides is tight. There is not the money in the country there has been before, and people will not contribute as they used to. It seems to us that this reaction is entirely logical and natural and that the effect will be all good. Extremes meet. The communities which are the most riotous and corrupt in one decade are the quietest in the next. Western people see this illustrated many times in a lifetime. People who saw men running back and forth between the Republican and the Democratic headquarters two years ago, in order to get the highest possible price, may see the same men reject any advances in that line with scorn when public sentiment has set strong against such practices. We make this suggestion to both parties, and hope it will receive candid consideration. It may not be necessary to do anything radical to convict for the crimes of bribery and vote-selling, but one or two convictions and a short term in the penitentiary for the offenders would do the business. A sudden wave of virtue would sweep the State.

A GROSS ABUSE.

People complain of the abuse of the freedom of the press in this country. What shall be said of the abuse which witnesses in law suits have heaped upon them by the lawyers? No newspaper in Nevada ever dealt out such calumnies, vilification and slander, or has ever indulged in such gross and sweeping vituperation of respectable men as were heaped upon the witnesses for the railroad, by General Kittrill in his address to the jury last Saturday night. The abuse of their privileges in this respect, by special pleading, is a disgrace to the legal profession.

To refer to those Central Pacific employees and officials, who gave testimony in the suit, as "whales of the same litter," as General Kittrill did, was a flagrant outrage and a vile insult. The men who work for the railroad will not suffer by comparison with any other class. Many of them get and retain their positions by virtue

Mr. Veal and J. E. Shieh were made ill. Antidotes were taken, a doctor sent for, and the sick men recovered.

In the case of the people vs. Richard Scott, charged with incest, the prisoner was arraigned before the Superior Court at Red Bluff on Wednesday. The defendant pleaded guilty. Gen. Coe, of Nebraska, who purchased about ten thousand head of cattle of A. Stevenson, G. L. Eames, Sheriff Miller and others, of Humboldt county last fall, is now preparing to gather them up to ship east. The Silver State says he intends, just as soon as the cattle recuperate sufficiently to stand the trip, to ship some thousand head by rail to Nebraska.

Says the Montana Herald: Within a quarter of a century large irrigating canals will lead water from the Sun river, Maris, Mill river, and other northern streams, to the vast plains immediately east of the Rockies, making available for agricultural purposes immense bodies of rich land, now worthless, except for grazing, and thousands of happy homes will then adorn the now treeless prairies.

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

Port Townsend, April 30.—Last night, soon after midnight, James B. Murphy, an old resident of this city, proceeded to the house of his brother-in-law, N. D. Tobey, where his wife, who had previously separated from him, was staying, and being armed with an ax, gun and knife, soon gained an entrance. Mrs. Murphy succeeded in escaping from the house through a back door, but her sister was met by the infuriated man at the front door and stabbed severely in the side and arm, after which he made a search for his wife, but failing to find her, swallowed a dose of strychnine, and before medical aid could be summoned he was dead. Tobey is supposed to have been the cause of the act, as some years ago he made an attempt to cut his throat but repented. An inquest was held on the remains this morning and a verdict of suicide returned. The deceased was a native of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and was 53 years of age.
